Acting Dean Next Year To Be Ernest Opperman

Acting dean of students at Wartburg next fall will be Ernest Opperman, Hampton high school athletic coach, according to an announcement from President C. H. Becker this week.

Mr. Opperman will serve as acting dean during the absence of Marvin Grunke, who has been granted a year's leave to work toward his master's degree at the University of Minnesota.

Dean To Coach

Having served as assistant coach and coach at Hampton, the new acting dean will also serve as assistant coach in basketball and football when he assumes his new duties here. No final arrangements have been made concerning minor sports, according to the president's announcement.

"Mr. Opperman will be assisted in the dean's office by regular members of the faculty," commented President Becker.

A graduate of Wartburg, Mr. Opperman will take work in physical education at the State University of Iowa this summer before returning to the alma mater.

Team Track Champ

Mr. Opperman's track team at Hampton won a conference championship last week.

The Rev. Mr. Grunke, granted a year's leave of absence beginning June 1, will take courses in personal and guidance leading to a master's degree in educational psychology. He will study under G. Gilbert Wrenn, professor of educational psychology at the University of Minnesota and president of the American College Personnel association.

Acting Dean Grunke and his family will live in Lake Elmo, a suburb of the Twin Cities, while he is studying at the university.

New Gym Ground Broken

First ground for the new Wartburg gymnasium was broken Sunday at public ceremonies at the building site on the west campus. Actual ground-breaking was in the hands of the Rev. C. H. Becker, Wartburg president; the Rev. W. C. Langlois, college development director; and Theodore E. Gutzlaff, student body president.

Theme for the ceremonies was set by the opening hymn, "Praise to the Lord," and by the scripture reading by the Rev. Otto Fängey, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church of Waverly. The Rev. Mr. Fängey used as his scriptural text the 127th Psalm, which begins "Except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain that build it."

In spite of the chilly northwest wind blowing into the open area, over five hundred people attended the ceremonies and heard several speakers express their high hopes and prayers for further development of Wartburg.

"This year marks the beginning of the outward, physical development of Wartburg," said Walter G. Voelck, Wartburg's president of the college Board of Regents, who represented both the board and the community. He emphasized the importance of physical development, which must accompany intellectual development.

Spiritual side of the ground-breaking was emphasized by Dr. Herman W. Siefkes, president of the Iowa district of the American Lutheran church, who declared, "My greatest thrill today is that God is with us building this institution."

Recalling the ideals established by the college's forefathers, Prof. Samuel E. Salmann, acting president of Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque, said, "We join in thanksgiving to God for the fact that the church is firmly building up its colleges and seminaries."

"Ground Is God's." "In breaking this ground, we are fully conscious of the ground," said President C. H. Becker as he turned over the first shovel of dirt.

"We hope it is only the beginning," stated the Rev. Mr. Langlois.

Student President Gutzlaff emphasized the pride with which the students take part in ground-breaking ceremonies.

The Rev. Paul Moeller, Waverly, president of the Wartburg Alumni Association, offered the closing prayer and gave the benediction.

Wartburg band and chapel choir, both under the direction of Edified A. Odegard, presented several numbers on the program.

control, had the solo part. Especially noteworthy in the two movements of Dr. Lischni's composition "Mass in the Aeolian Mode" was the one of the most featured an off-stage echo quartet, and the "Agnus Dei" was particularly noteworthy.

Hummings Is Outstanding. "Hummings Is Outstanding" was an adaptation by Dr. Gutzlaff, who was also outstanding for the Wartburg. The soloist, the contralto solo by Lois Landbeck, senior.

A combination of an arrangement by Dr. Lischni, a soprano solo by Betty Blum, junior, and an unaccompanied piano by the Wartburg. The soloist, the contralto solo by Lois Landbeck, senior.

Briton Will Speak

Miss Hilda Beal of York, England, will speak in convocation hall Thursday at 7:30 on the European situation. Her theme is "Common Dangers." Everyone is asked to attend.

According to C. W. Pries, chairman of the speaker's committee, the speaker will be in charge of arrangements for visit.

Stranger to Iowa or to Wartburg, Miss Beal spoke here in 1942 on behalf of the British European situation. She was a member of the staff of Hull University, she is keenly interested in international affairs. She served for a time as an exchange teacher at North Dakota.

April 23, Miss Beal will speak to Prof. August Pries, who is a student of the college's social organization classes.

Study This Ballot!

All students are asked to study this ballot concerning student government on the Wartburg campus. This is a sample of the ballot to be used during convocation next Thursday, April 22, when a series of elections for the present condition or the proposed changes, students will have an opportunity to vote "undecided" or "no opinion." The explanation concerning the points will be presented before the vote is taken.

- I. Manner of election of student senators
  - a. Present Condition
    - Each class nominates its own candidates for the Student Senate, but the whole student body votes for the student senators of all classes.
  - b. Proposed Change
    - Each class shall nominate and elect its own student senators.
- II. Representation on the senate
  - a. Present Condition
    - The Student Senate consists of four seniors, four juniors, three sophomores and two freshmen, plus the president and vice-president of the student body.
  - b. Proposed Change
    - Freshmen and sophomores should have equal representation with juniors and seniors classes.
- III. Student body meetings
  - a. Present Condition
    - Body meetings are held whenever a majority of the Student Senate believes an important point should be considered or voted on by all the students.
  - b. Proposed Change
    - Student body meetings should be held monthly and should be of such a nature as to allow students to:
      1. Initiate legislation.
      2. Vote on matters which the majority of the Student Senate thinks pertinent.
- IV. Student Senate meetings
  - a. Present Condition
    - Class meetings are held whenever class presidents deem it necessary. No reports are required to be given to classes by the Senate members, but classes can make their wishes known to the representatives of the Senate.
  - b. Proposed Change
    - Class shall hold regular meetings for two specific purposes:
      1. Hear reports from its representatives to the Student Senate.
      2. Acquaint its representatives in the Senate with the feeling of the class in regard to pertinent topics.
- V. Membership in the Senate
  - a. Present Condition
    - Each class is officially represented on the Student Senate by its representatives elected for that purpose, but Senate meetings are not limited to any classes.
  - b. Proposed Change
    - Class presidents should automatically become members of the Senate in order to more intelligently coordinate the work of the class with the college program.

Student Opinion Poll To Be Given By Senate

Opinion poll on Wartburg student government will be submitted to the student body next Thursday at convocation as the result of a decision by the Student Senate at its meeting last Monday evening in Luther hall.

Upon an invitation by the Senate, speakers at the Progressive party who met with the Senate, said that three delegates to a committee which drew up the student opinion poll printed in the issue of the TRUMPET.

Six On Committee.

Senate members of this committee were Theodore Gutzlaff, president of the student body, Clarence Brauer and Herman Diers, all seniors. Progressive party representatives to this committee were Robert Grondlund, junior Norman Pfister, freshman, and Raymond Meier, sophomore.

Suggested changes in Article IV of the Student Senate constitution are the following:

"Sec. 1. The student body constitution shall be amended by a two-thirds majority vote of those present at a student body meeting.

Two Change Methods.

"Sec. 2. Proposed amendments shall be initiated by either a majority vote of the Senate or through a petition signed by at least one-fourth of the regularly enrolled students.

"Sec. 3. Proposed amendments shall be voted upon by the student body at a meeting of that body held no sooner than two weeks following the initiation of the amendment."

Student Senate will vote on the amendment next Monday evening.

A. G. Sholkunoff, public relations director of the college, the Senate passed a recommendation that all folks in the Homecoming parade and all Koolha Kapers slits should be in keeping with the Homecoming theme and not boost the organization.

McMichael Speaks On Convo Program

The Rev. Glean McMichael, pastor of the Waverly Methodist church, spoke at the Wartburg college convocation Tuesday on the subject of "What We Really Want to Know."

"What we really want to know," stated the Rev. Mr. McMichael, "here (1) how to make a living, (2) how to serve, (3) how to be educated enough so that life will be stimulating, exciting and (4) how to fulfill our destiny so that we have contentment and fullness of life."

The speaker especially stressed the fourth point, bringing out that the number of things there are some things must discipline ourselves. "Discipline being a word which the number of things there are some things must discipline ourselves. "Discipline being a word which the number of things there are some things must discipline ourselves."

Another quality needed, the speaker pointed out, is the conviction that there are some things worth doing for. The greater number of items on this list, the more peaceful one may become.

Massive Human Pipe Organ Presents Inspiring Concert

By Omar Bonderud

A massive human pipe organ presented a concert in the Waverly high school auditorium last Sunday evening, a concert that was inspiring as well as musically exciting.

This pipe organ consisted of the 31 members of the Wartburg capella choir, and its organist was Dr. Edwin Lischni, director of the Wartburg capella choir, for it did look and sound like a pipe organ, but pointing physically and musically to heaven and responding exactly to the most minute motions of the director.

Organ-like Perfection.

Enjoyably apparent in the choir's presentation was its organ-like perfection in expression. It seemed that Lischni was more fitting to describe the college choir, for it did look and sound like a pipe organ, but pointing physically and musically to heaven and responding exactly to the most minute motions of the director.

control, had the solo part.

Especially noteworthy in the two movements of Dr. Lischni's composition "Mass in the Aeolian Mode" was the one of the most featured an off-stage echo quartet, and the "Agnus Dei" was particularly noteworthy.

Hummings Is Outstanding.

"Hummings Is Outstanding" was an adaptation by Dr. Gutzlaff, who was also outstanding for the Wartburg. The soloist, the contralto solo by Lois Landbeck, senior.

Six Weeks For Planning

With only six more weeks remaining in the collegiate year, it is time to make plans for 1948-49 in every part of the college. This planning applies to the TRUMPET as much as it does to any other activity on the Wartburg campus.

It has been pointed out only too often this year, both in this column and in the personal gripes of staff members, that putting out a weekly newspaper is a major operation. True, one person could easily manage it if he devoted all his time to such a job, but college students—even college journalists—have a few classes and other activities that seem to keep them busy. This means that the TRUMPET will need many additional staff members next year, both to replace those leaving this year and to relieve part of the heavy loads being carried by some staff members.

Why go out for the TRUMPET as an extracurricular activity?

The staff may be prejudiced, but the greater part of it agrees that the experience gained by working on a newspaper—even one as small as this one—is about the most valuable on the Wartburg campus. This is not an activity for students who are preparing for the journalistic profession alone; on the contrary, it is one which should concern anyone with the faintest interest in newspapers.

The TRUMPET sounds this week, not for able-bodied nor even for able-brained students necessarily, but for students who would like to be the people behind it next year. That goes for future editors, as well as for future stamp-collectors.

All that is required of a future staff member at the present time is that he or she have energy enough to walk over to the TRUMPET office in the "White House" and indicate his or her desires in regard to future journalistic employment. The wages are small—in fact, nothing—but the receipts are worth the effort.

Chapel Indicates Emphasis

Last Sunday at gymnasium ground-breaking ceremonies most of the emphasis was placed on the spiritual rather than the physical side of college life. This emphasis is but one indication of the general atmosphere of a Christian college.

Another indication is found in evening chapel attendance. Unfortunately, this measurement of the Christian spirit at Wartburg now and then falls to an embarrassing point. Exam weeks, spring fever, Friday dates—all provide excuses for missing chapel. But now we ask ourselves, "Is there any legitimate excuse or logical reason for missing a daily chance to meditate and worship with fellow-Christians?"

Wartburg college—and that includes all of us—professes to be a Christian institution, and it apparently lives up to its Christian traditions; but every once in a while the spirit forgets to move some of its members to meet the most important part of life, communion with God.

Certainly these studies, the weather or that "certain someone" isn't so important that he or she can't wait 20 or 30 minutes to give us an opportunity to take advantage of the greatest gift possessed by a free Christian, that of worshipping his God in the wholesome company of fellow-believers.

—T—

Here's Worth-while Project

Any campus organization looking for a worth-while project might consider the need for repair of hymnals in the chapel. Then, if that organization would want to do the project, it might consider the purchase of more hymnals.

Presenting Your Faculty

Mrs. Bowman-Vocalist

A vocalist in her own right, as well as an instructor in voice, Mrs. Erma Bowman has been solo voice ever since her high school career.

Attending high school in Reinbeck, the Iowa town where her father was a furniture dealer, she began her solo work. Grinnell was the site of two more years of such activity and another two years were spent at Iowa State Teachers college. It was from the latter that she received her B.A. degree as a music major. During her college career there she sang as soprano soloist for the top girls glee club, the most outstanding vocal organization on the campus.

Teaches At Alma Mater.

No sooner had she graduated from the college before she set to work as a teacher at her alma mater. Graduate work began to attract this soprano, so she went to Chicago and studied there under the famed vocal instructor Mrs. Charles Kunz. Her M. A. degree was earned at Columbia University, New York, where she also worked there and at Northwestern university.

While in New York, she took advantage of further opportunities by studying at the Juillard Institute, as well as at Union Theological Seminary.

But the big city held more attractions for the musician than classes. Mrs. Bowman has occasionally since she was well-coached with the press, managed to get the best seating for artists, concerts and plays.

Turns to Her own field. Mrs. Bowman, after attending symphonic concerts, Metropolitan productions and other musical highlights, places Lily Lasker as a dramatic flagstaff at the top of her list of artists.

When Mrs. Bowman was teaching voice at Potsdam State Teachers college in Potsdam, N. Y., her group was invited to appear in Carnegie hall in New York in honor of the great Paderewski. The New York Philharmonic orchestra, as well as several Metropolitan soloists, was on hand for the occasion. The moments spent singing a group of Polish songs were under the direction of Madame Bonafant of France were the most thrilling of her life.

Mrs. Bowman has been soloist in church and light opera, as well as director of church choirs. The Wartburg music instructor returned to the midwest because of the health of her mother, who lives with her in Annex 3. She has taught here since 1943 and enjoys being back in the midwest which is still home to her and where she finds people taking a little time to be friendly.

Tis Tivvoken?

-Oph Thelmar-

That grass certainly is taking a long time to grow along Bremer avenue. It was planted way last Monday or Tuesday. Guess my impatience is getting the better of my biology. But it will be nice to see it all turning green.

Do you know the place Eye meant in the last paragraph? Our campus layout is so vague a "shindig" like this coming. It is getting brierer each day, we should name the areas in some way in order to be better able to talk about them. For example, we might call the new area south of the Ad building, the Slicpe, or something else. You name it; it's your baby.

Why can't we have some big, beautiful posters that tell us when there are meetings? Eye enjoyed looking at an original, or even not original, idea, put on poster paper, announcing that the Awful Maids of Alpha Mu are throwing a "shindig" like this coming. Satisfi note. Cum wun, cum awd. We have to have some life on the campus, and that's the poster and the "shindig."

(My apologies to the Awful Maids of Alpha Mu. In fact, two apologies. Number one (1), YOU don't have to throw the party, especially—unless you want to. Eye'll be there. Satisfi note, though. And Number two (2), "Awful" means "full of awe." Eye hope you took it that way. Eye'm still glad they don't know my name, though.)

Eye'd like to go a-walkin'—And a-talkin'—Or maybe go a-mooin'—And a-wooin'—But Conscience says "No buddin'—In'—You're studyin'!"

Progressives' First Open Meet Attracts One Hundred Students

Progressive party of Wartburg college held an open meeting last Tuesday evening in Luther hall. Approximately one hundred students were present at the question and answer period.

Under the guidance of Richard Trapp, junior, the meeting opened with a report on the history of the party given by Omar Bonderud, sophomore, and followed by reading of the platform by Clifford Diksen, senior, and a report on the Student Senate meeting held the night before by John Walker, sophomore.

The progressive party was not an organization when it started two months ago. It was only a group of students interested in better student government. We obtained the constitutions of the student bodies of various other Lutheran colleges and applied some of their principles to our situation by incorporating them into our platform. I stated Bonderud at the meeting.

Walker Reports

Walker reported that four members of the Progressive party and the student Senate had a friendly discussion period at which the points in the party platform were reviewed. The Senate, therefore, proposed that one point, that of permitting a vote of two-thirds of the students to amend the constitution, be acted upon at the meeting of the Student Senate next Monday evening.

In the discussion period it was pointed out that the party will meet only as often as possible members wish to meet and when they wish to meet. It was also stated that the party will not nominate candidates for offices, but only campaign for some who are nominated.

In answer to the question of whether the party wishes to get people interested in class meetings, it was stated that the party wants an active class spirit and will work for class interest as a means of getting people interested in student government as a whole.

Minutes' Posting Backed

Posting of the minutes of the Student Senate and the posting of the same is another matter that the Progressive party backs.

"Because we found no other name immediately we called ourselves a party, but we could have called ourselves 'the group.' That was the answer of the chairman to the question 'Why did you call yourself a party?'

Members of the temporary executive committee of the party are Richard Trapp, chairman; James Zuehl, junior and vice-chairman; Clifford Diksen, secretary; John Walker, treasurer; Raymond Meier, sophomore; and Norman Fintel, freshman, members at large.

Meeting of the Progressive party adjourned, to be reconvened by the executive committee.

Looking Back

10 Years Ago

Wartburg college choir, consisting 43 members, left on the third annual tour to present a series of sacred concerts in Iowa and Illinois under the direction of Prof. Edwin Lienhart. Over 1300 miles will be traveled by the organization during its 12-day tour.

5 Years Ago

Of 250 students who started the school year at Wartburg last fall about sixteen per cent are now in the armed forces.

2 Years Ago

Two burglaries were committed in Waverly, one of them being in the treasurer's office at Wartburg college.

Nothing was taken from the office, although the burglars lifted several drawers and files. Apparently they were scared away by something, as the safe was untouched.

1 Year Ago

The Castle Den is rapidly becoming more and more popular with the students at Wartburg. It is the first time in years that the students have been able to get together.

LSA Will Present Panel Discussion

Wartburg deputation committee of the Lutheran Student association will present a panel discussion on 'Inter-Faith Marriage' at the regular meeting of the LSA in the dining hall tomorrow at 5 p.m.

Bob Gronlund, junior, will lead the discussion on Catholic Lutheran, Jewish-Lutheran and other phases of inter-faith marriages. The phases will be presented by Irma Jean Hoefling, sophomore; Doris Hagen, junior; and Russell Henderson, sophomore. A discussion period in which the audience may participate will be held.

John Walker, sophomore, will lead the recreation and Leslie Huebner, senior, is in charge of the devotional period. Refreshments will be served by the committee of which Helen Mueller, freshman, is in charge.

Chapel Choristers Give Three Concerts

Wartburg Chapel choir, singing under the baton of Enfield Oelgard of the Wartburg music department, presented three concerts during the past several weeks. Choir appeared in its new maroon robes.

Most recent appearance was made last Sunday afternoon when the group broadcast a number over the air during the groundbreaking ceremony broadcast. The choir presented its first full concert of the season at Hudson on April 4, at Redlyn on April 9 and at Plainfield on April 11.

Committees Named To Have Charge Of Senior Program

Committees were recently appointed to have charge of Senior day activities on the Wartburg campus May 5 when the college plays host to high school seniors from all over the Midwest.

General plans for the day are in charge of the college public relations committee of which the Rev. C. G. Shalkhauser, public relation director, is chairman.

Other committee chairmen include Dr. Alfred Hefner, Greek professor; registration; Dr. John Hittner, Christianity professor, convocation and chapel; Coach Axel Bundgaard, sports; Mrs. Henry Grube, cafeteria manager; food; Miss Helen Wright, art instructor; posters; Dean of Women Elizabeth Gjerik, open house, and Theodore Gutzlaff, student body president, guiding staff.

Purpose of the annual Senior day is to show a college in action to high school seniors, especially those planning to enter college next fall. Morning events on the day's program will include open classes, laboratory demonstrations, and displays, counseling and a convocation featuring the Wartburg a cappella choir.

Afternoon program will consist of a band concert and athletic events with a picnic lunch planned for the early evening.

Main event after that will be the presentation by the dramatics department of the play "Sun-Up."

Instructor Surprised By Faculty Women

Miss Margaret Wolff, English and journalism instructor, was guest of honor Thursday afternoon at a surprise party given by faculty and staff women in the home economics dining room.

Given in recognition of Miss Wolff's accomplishments as advisor to the TRUMPET, recent recipient of an All-American honor rating, the party featured humorous talks by three faculty women, the Misses Stella Aulerud, Elizabeth Gjerik and Helen Wright.

Hostesses were Miss Erna Moehl, who also served as toastmistress, and Miss Helene Hafner.

Minutaire "extra" editions of the TRUMPET were used as table decoration.
